2. Organisation of the congress

At present, the number of participants is about 250. The program includes 150 short papers, divided among three parallel sections, and 15 plenary reports. Presenters who have not yet specified the title of their paper and/or sent an abstract are requested to do so immediately. In view of the large number of papers, the time for speaking will be limited to 20 minutes, and no papers will be read in absentia. A provisional list of the papers is available at the web site of the IRHT (http://www.irht.cnrs.fr/congres_copte2004.htm). The web site of the Association francophone de Coptologie is temporarily closed.

3. Modes of presentation

- Paper hand-out: if possible, the original should be given to us on the day of registration to be duplicated.
- Over-head projection: bring transparencies as well as printouts on paper (in case it will be possible to use a suitable projector).
- Slide projection: do not neglect to number your slides, in order to facilitate the task of the technicians who will assist you.
- Video: there are two possibilities:
 - a) bring your own portable computer; or
 - b) bring a CD containing the files and the fonts to be used. If you use unusual fonts or fonts in non-Latin characters, send us their names and specifications in advance. For the files, use any of the following formats: .rtf (Word); .ppt (Powerpoint); .mdb (Access); .pdf (Acrobat).

We advise you, as a matter of prudence, to duplicate your video presentation in some other medium, in case there is some technical problem. In any case, bear in mind that the rooms are large, and take care that your presentation can be seen clearly even from a distance.

4. Registration

Registration for congress participants will take place on Sunday, 27 June, from 4:00 pm to 8:00 pm at the Institut d'Art, 3 rue Michelet, Paris, 6th arrondissement. (Late arrivals may register on 28 June starting at 8:00 am.) The Institut d'Art is a large, red-brick building near the Luxembourg Gardens that can be easily reached via the Port-Royal metro station (RER [see below], ligne B). The building is about 5 minutes by foot from the metro stop (see the enclosed map). Registration fees:

|--|---------|
| IACS and AFC members: | € 60.00 |
| Students and retired, unemployed, or accompanying persons: | € 30.00 |
| Others: | € 90.00 |

In order to ease the registration procedure on Sunday, 27 June, you may pay your fee now, before the congress, up until 15 June 2004

- either by check (drawn only on a French bank) paid to the order of the “Association francophone de Coptologie”
- or by direct transfer (making sure that any bank charges are applied to your account and not to ours) to the following account (please be sure to indicate your name and “frais d’inscription congrès”):

Association francophone de Coptologie
IBAN: FR 77 20041 01015 0339942M036 05
BIC : PSSTFRPPSTR

French participants are encouraged to pay their registration fee before the congress. Others may do so at registration.

5. Transportation and travel

There are several possibilities for getting from the airports and train stations to the hotels and congress sites. The most expensive means are taxis and private shuttle bus services. The least expensive is via the trains of the RER (“Réseau Express Régional”; the different lines have letters) and the Paris metro (“métro” is shortened from “métropolitain”; the different lines have numbers). Although taxis and shuttle buses have the advantage that they will deliver you right to your destination, the RER is generally faster and both less expensive and quite easy to use. When using the RER, you will want to head either for the Port-Royal station on line B (a little south of the Luxembourg Gardens; see map), or for the Denfert-Rochereau station, the next stop south on the same line (at place Denfert-Rochereau). Port-Royal is closest to the first congress site (just a 5-minute walk to the Institut d’Art), while Denfert-Rochereau is closer to the Ibis and Kyriad hotels (see below for further directions to the hotels). If you are traveling to the Cité Universitaire (19 boulevard Jourdan in the 14th arrondissement), you want the next stop south on the same line after Denfert-Rochereau.

Arrival at Charles de Gaulle airport

Follow the RER signs and take either the shuttle (red) or the bus (green) for a short ride from the airport terminal to the railway station. Take the RER line B (€ 7.75) to the Port-Royal station (for the congress site), or to Denfert-Rochereau (for the hotels), or to the Cité Universitaire. Approximate travel time is 30 minutes. Trains depart every 10 minutes between 5:00 am and midnight. A taxi from the airport will cost between € 35.00 and € 50.00 and will take 45–60 minutes.

Arrival at Orly airport

There are two possibilities. (1) Take the “Orlyval” (€ 8.80) in the direction of “Antony” to the RER station and change there to the RER line B (described above, but noting that Orly is south of Paris, whereas Charles de Gaulle is north). Approximate travel time is 15 minutes, with departures every 5–10 minutes between 6:00 am and 10:30 pm. (2) There is also the “Orlybus” (€ 5.70), which will take you from the airport directly to Denfert-Rochereau. At the airport, follow signs for the “Orlybus shuttle.” Travel time is approximately 30 minutes, with departures every 12 minutes or so between 6:00 am and 11:00 pm. A taxi from Orly airport will cost between € 20.00 and € 30.00 and is a good alternative for 2 or 3 people traveling together.

Arrival at a main train station (SNCF = Société Nationale des Chemins de fer Français)

At the train station, change to the RER or to the metro so as to make your way to Port-Royal or Denfert-Rochereau or Cité Universitaire. If you want to take a taxi from the train station, follow the signs to the taxi queue (taxis no longer pick up passengers at random).

Arrival by car

Get onto the “boulevard périphérique” and take the “porte d’Orléans” exit, then follow signs to Denfert-Rochereau (see map; the périphérique cuts across the lower left-hand corner, just above boulevard Romain Rolland, and the porte d’Orléans exit leads to place du 25 Août 1944). There are parking garages located in the area around place Denfert-Rochereau. The hotels will be off to your left when you reach place Victor Basch as you head for Denfert-Rochereau. For the Cité Universitaire, you will have to turn right into boulevard Jourdan at place du 25 Août 1944.

How to get from Denfert-Rochereau to the Ibis and Kyriad hotels (in the “Alésia” neighborhood)

After getting off the RER at Denfert-Rochereau, follow signs in the station for the metro line 4 (direction: “Porte d’Orléans”). Take the metro to the station “Alésia” (one stop before the end of the line). Both hotels are just a short walk from the station, on the same street (see map): 49 rue des Plantés (Ibis), and 30–32 rue des Plantés (Kyriad). (N.B. You cannot catch the metro line 4 at Port-Royal.)

To reach the Institut d’Art (main congress site, 3 rue Michelet)

The Institut d’Art is about 30 minutes by foot from the hotels in Alésia. To get there by metro, take line 4 from Alésia (at place Victor Basch) to Denfert-Rochereau (two stops away; direction “Porte de Clignancourt”), where you must change to the RER line B for one stop to Port-Royal (direction: “Aéroport Charles de Gaulle”). Port-Royal is just a few minutes away from the institute by foot. Alternatively, you can stay on the metro line 4 for two stops past Denfert-Rochereau, exit at “Vavin,” and then make your way via back streets from boulevard Montparnasse to the institute on rue Michelet.

Or you can catch bus 38 (which runs every day until midnight) at avenue du Général-Leclerc (bus stop “Alésia-Général-Leclerc”; direction: “Gare du Nord”), getting off at “Observatoire-Port Royal” or “Val de Grâce,” both of which are just a short walk from the institute.

From the Cité Universitaire, take the RER line B to the Port-Royal station.

Tickets for the metro; the “carte orange”

You will need a special ticket to travel on the RER from the airports or a train station (see the prices stated above). Thereafter, each single ride on the metro or bus or RER will require one ticket per ride. You can buy a book (“carnet”) of 10 tickets for € 10.00, which is less expensive than buying the tickets individually (at € 1.30 per ticket).

It is recommended, however, that congress participants buy a “carte orange hebdomadaire,” that is, a weekly pass that allows unlimited travel on all metros and buses, as well as on RER trains within Paris (2 zones), for any given Monday-to-Sunday period. An “Orange Card” costs € 14.50 and thus should be a good bargain for most congress attendees. Please note that in order to buy an Orange Card, you need to have a small identity photo, such as a passport photo. At the ticket counter in any metro station, ask for “une carte orange et un coupon hebdomadaire deux zones.” Write your name on the card and give it to the ticket seller together with your photo, and he will laminate them together; that is your Orange Card. The accompanying “coupon” is a kind of heavy-duty metro ticket that you may use over and over again throughout the week. You must write your Orange-Card number on this ticket. The ticket-seller will give you a little plastic wallet in which both card and ticket can be conveniently stored. When you ride the bus, you only have to show your Orange Card to the driver.

Travel and Security in Paris.

Although Paris is a remarkably safe city for its size, it does experience the usual problems of a very large metropolitan area. Be sure to keep your eye on your wallet or purse, especially when traveling. And be city-smart! Beware of a ruse on the subway, for example, in which a “passenger” on the train or on an escalator drops something, and your pocket is picked (possibly by a confederate stationed behind you) if you stoop to help. Stay clear of confusion and people jostling against you.

Food

Probably those who so choose will be able to have lunch at a moderately-priced university cafeteria close to the Institut d’Art. Students are especially advised to equip themselves with an International Student ID Card (ISTC).

Restaurants and cafés

There are a great many restaurants and cafés in the neighborhood of the two congress sites, although the relation of quality to price is not always so good. At registration, we will provide you with a list of food establishments located near the hotels and the congress sites. Life in Paris is expensive, and one also pays according to the service rendered. For example, a cup of coffee costs € 1.00 to € 1.20 if you drink it while standing at the counter, and the price can easily be double if you are seated. While it is possible to have a reasonable dinner for € 20.00, most likely you will pay much more.

Weather

It is entirely possible that it will be quite warm in Paris during the congress, between 20° and 35° Celsius (68° and 95° Fahrenheit) and the congress sites are not air-conditioned (although the congress hotels are). Note that the Institut d'Art is located at the edge of the Luxembourg Gardens, which are normally very pleasant. On the other hand, at this time of year it is equally possible that it might be rainy and cool. It is advisable to bring layers of clothing so that you can adjust to the weather and to any possible rain.

Les intervenants qui n'ont pas encore précisé le titre de leur communication et/ou envoyé de résumé sont priés de le faire d'urgence.]

Etant donné le grand nombre de communications, le temps de parole sera limité à 20 mn et aucun papier ne sera lu in absentia.

Une liste provisoire des communications est disponible sur le site de l'IRHT (http://www.irht.cnrs.fr/congres_copte2004.htm). Le site de l'Association francophone de Coptologie est provisoirement fermé.

Pour les fichiers, enregistrez-les au choix sous les formats suivants : .rtf (Word) ; .ppt (Powerpoint) ; .mdb (Access) ; .pdf (Acrobat).

RER ligne B : descendre à « Port-Royal ».

Tickets de métro ou « carte orange » :

Pour venir de l'aéroport à Paris par le train ou le RER, vous devrez prendre un ticket spécial (voir prix ci-dessus). Ensuite, pour vous déplacer dans Paris, vous pouvez

- soit acheter des tickets par carnets de 10 (prix d'un carnet : 10 €, mais le ticket à l'unité est plus cher : 1,30 €) ; un ticket sert pour un trajet en bus ou en métro
- soit acheter une « carte orange hebdomadaire » qui permet un nombre de trajets illimité dans Paris pour une semaine (lundi au dimanche) et coûte 14,50 €. Munissez-vous d'une photo d'identité. Au guichet demandez « une carte orange et un coupon hebdomadaire deux zones ». Ecrivez votre nom sur la carte et donnez-la au guichetier avec votre photo, pour qu'il plastifie l'ensemble. Puis reportez le numéro de votre carte sur votre coupon. Dans le métro, vous devez passer le coupon dans les machines à chaque trajet. Dans le bus, vous montrez seulement votre carte au chauffeur.

Sécurité : pas de problème particulier mais, comme dans la plupart de grandes villes, il faut veiller sur ses affaires personnelles, particulièrement dans les transports.

Repas : il est probable que ceux qui le désirent pourront déjeuner dans un restaurant universitaire proche de l'Institut d'Art, où les repas sont à prix modérés. Les étudiants sont particulièrement invités à se munir d'une carte d'étudiant internationale (ISTC).

Restaurants et cafés : ils sont nombreux, mais le rapport qualité/prix n'est pas toujours bon. Nous proposerons une liste d'adresses proches de l'hôtel ou des lieux du congrès lors de l'enregistrement. La vie à Paris est chère. Par exemple, un café au comptoir coûte entre 1 € et 1,20 €, mais si vous êtes assis, le prix fait en général plus que doubler.

Climat : à cette période, il peut faire très chaud (de 20 à 35°). Les lieux du congrès ne sont pas climatisés. Mais il peut aussi pleuvoir et faire plus frais. L'Institut d'art est situé en bordure des jardins de l'Observatoire, très agréables).

THE SARAH J. CLACKSON COPTIC FUND

The late Sarah J. Clackson donated a large body of research materials in Coptic to the Griffith Institute in the University of Oxford, and a fund was established in her memory to support research in the fields to which these materials relate. Friends and colleagues of Dr. Clackson contributed over £20,000 for the fund, including a generous donation of £6,000 from the Faculty of Classics in the University of Cambridge. These donations have been used to establish a new trust fund in the University of Oxford entitled the "Sarah J Clackson Coptic Fund." The trust will provide travel and research grants to anyone undertaking work on Coptic manuscripts, especially those for which there is documentation in the Clackson bequest, including the viewing, preparation, and recording of material, but excluding conservation.

The Faculty of Oriental Studies in the University will manage the fund through a subcommittee that aims to meet three times per year (normally February, May, and November) to consider applications, although it will make every effort to consider applications at other times of the year in case of need. The committee is empowered to make grants of up to £500. For grants of over £500 the committee shall submit recommendations for the Faculty Board's approval. It is not expected that many grants will be made significantly over this sum.

Applications are invited from the academic year 2004–2005 onward. Those who apply for grants should provide a letter of application explaining the purpose to which the funds will be put, a curriculum vitae, details of the full cost of the project, and details of any other applications for funds, or funds already awarded, for the same project.

Communications should be addressed to the Faculty Board Secretary, Ms. C. L. ACTS OF THE 7TH INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS
OF COPTIC STUDIES, LEIDEN 2000

As many IACS members will already know, proofs of the Leiden Coptic studies congress acts (ICCCoptS 7 [Leiden 2000]) were distributed by the press (Peeters in Leuven) earlier this year. The editors and the press hope to be able to have the publication ready in time for the upcoming Coptic studies congress in Paris, but it cannot yet guarantee that it will be possible to do so. In any case, the acts are now certainly “forthcoming”!

EASTERN CHRISTIAN ART: CALL FOR ARTICLES

Over the past years, the scholarly interest in the Christian art of the Middle East has considerably increased. A major problem to students focusing on this subject is the absence of a periodical specialized in Oriental Christian art. A few years ago, Leiden University initiated the Essays on Christian Art and Culture in the Middle East (ECACME), which was a low budget journal, produced as a part of the university's educative and scholarly projects executed in Egypt and Syria. Since this periodical also attracted international scholarly attention, we decided to attempt to raise its level accordingly. We envisaged a successor of high quality, called Eastern Christian Art (ECA), to fulfil the growing needs of a specialized scholarly platform. We discussed this matter with Peeters Publishers in Leuven, and we are pleased to inform you that they are willing to publish ECA on an annual basis. It will be a full-colour journal (size 27 × 19.4 cm). We estimate the number of pages for the first years at 140–160 pp. The preparations for the first volume, to be published in autumn 2004, are already in progress.

Eastern Christian Art is devoted to studies in Christian art and archaeology in the Middle East, in English, French and German. Its aim is to present studies about Christian material culture in countries of the Middle East within a broad, interdisciplinary context, including late antique, Byzantine, Islamic, and crusader elements. The members of the Editorial Board are: B. ter Haar Romeny, M. Immerzeel, K. C. Innemée, M. Łaptas, G. J. M. van Loon, S. Schaten, and B. Snelders. Subscriptions may be sent to booksellers or to Peeters Publishers, Bondgenotenlaan 153, B-3000 Leuven, Belgium.

Authors are invited to contribute to Eastern Christian Art. The deadline for the first volume was 1 February 2004, for the second volume it is 1 January 2005. For author's guidelines and all correspondence concerning editorial matters, manuscripts and books for review, please write to: Leiden University, Paul van Moorsel Centre/TCMO, Box 9515, NL-2300 RA Leiden, The Netherlands; E-mail: NEART @let.leidenuniv.nl.
